FOX, Ruth May, general president of the Young Women's Mutual Improvement Association, was born Nov. 16, 1853, in Westbury, Wilshire, England, the daughter of James May and Mary Ann Harding. She emigrated to America in 1865 and crossed the plains in 1867 by ox-team in Capt. Leonard Rice's Company, which was outfitted at North Platte. Her first position in the Church was Sunday School teacher in the 14th Ward, Salt Lake City, at the age of 17. Since then she has worked in the Church

almost continuously. When the Primary Association was first organized in the 14th Ward she served as counselor to Clara C. Cannon. Later, she became president, serving for 19 years.

From 1895 to 1904 she was president of the 14th Ward Y. L. M. I. A. In 1898 she was called as an aid to the General Board, was chosen as first counselor to Pres. Martha H. Tingey and in March, 1929, became general president, succeeding Sister Tingey. She served as a missionary on Temple Square for 25 years. Sister Fox is the mother of twelve children, viz., Jesse May, Eliza May (deceased), George James, Ruth Clare (Taylor), Feramorz Young, Hyrum Lester, Esther Vida (Clawson), Frank Harding, Lucy Beryl (Evenson), Leonard Grant, Florence (Mackay), and Emeline Blanche (deceased).

FREEZE, Lillie (Leitz) Tuckett, a member of the General Board of the Y. W. M. I. A., was born in Salt Lake

City, Utah, the daughter of Henry Tuckett and Mercel E. Westwood. She went to St. George in 1861, but later returned to Salt Lake City, was active in the various auxiliary organizations of the 11th Ward, especially in the Retrenchment Association, and edited the 11th Ward "Star". She married James P. Freeze and bore four children. In October, 1889, she was called to the General Board of the Y. L. M. I. A., and wrote for the "Young Ladies Journal" and the "Woman's Exponent". She spoke in the Tabernacle on the 50th anniversary of the Church and prepared an article on M. I. A. work, used at the World's Fair in 1893.

FREEZE, Mary Ann Burnham, a member of the General Board of the Y. W. M. I. A., was born Oct. 12, 1845, in Nauvoo, Illinois, the daughter of James Lewis Burnham and Mary Ann Huntley. She was born two days after the death of her father in Nauvoo; her mother then married Joseph Young and they were driven with the Saints from Nauvoo. Crossing the plains she reached Salt Lake in 1852. She attended schools at Bountiful and Richmond, Utah, married James Perry Freeze in March, 1863, at the age of 16, moved to the 11th Ward, Salt Lake City, in 1863, was the mother of nine children and was one of four wives. In October, 1871, she was called to preside over the 11th Ward Retrenchment Society and later presided over the Y. L. M. I. A. of the Salt Lake Stake for many years. In 1889 she became a member of the General Board and served until her death in 1912. She was one of the first missionaries to serve on Temple Square in Salt Lake City.

When Manitoba came into the Confederation in 1870, it was called the "postage-stamp province" because it was so small. At that time it consisted of only the southern end of the present province, and all of what is now northern Manitoba was still a land of Indian trappers and Hudson's Bay Company fur traders, which belonged to the Northwest Territories until 1912.

Most of the population of Manitoba is still in that original "postage stamp" at the south. The western margin of the Canadian Shield begins near the southeast corner of the province, follows Lake Winnipeg north, and then turns west to cut off the entire northland. Nowhere in Canada is there dense population on the Shield.

Although Manitoba is counted as one of the Prairie Provinces, only a small strip along the southern border is real prairie grassland. Even the Winnipeg area was
